Three Men Aspire to Be Democratic National Committeeman Representing District.

TWO SETS OF DELEGATES ARE TO GO TO ST. LOUIS

Both Will Appeal to the Credentials Committee to Be Seated in Convention.

to press their claims. Two sets of delegates to the democratic national convenappeal to the credentials committee to be seated in the convention.

mitteeman are John F. Costello, whose election is vouched for by the democratic central committee, which held primary the District yesterday; William McK. Clayton, whose name appears on some of the ballots cast, after his application as a candiate had been rejected by the central committee and protest was made by presidents of four of the older democratic clubs in the District, and John W. Staggers, in whose interest a rival primary election was held in the Old Masonic Temple, 9th and F streets northwest, yesterday.

The two rival groups claiming election as delegates are twelve balloted for as a straight ticket at the central committee primaries and six balloted for at the Staggers primary in Old Masonic Temple.

Claims of Central Committee.

The democratic central committee claims that the thirteen names on its ballot were overwhelmingly elected. They claim that theirs was the only election held according to law and the regulations of the national committee. Robert F. Mattingly, the chairman, said this morning that not more than four votes had been cast for Mr. Clayton in all the twenty-two polling booths in the District. These still are in the ballot boxes, he says, adding that these ballots are illegal, as Mr. Clayton did not comply with the rules for the election, was not registered as a candidate and had contributed nothing to the expenses of the election.

Mr. Mattingly claims that about 4,000

penses of the election.

Mr. Mattingly claims that about 4,000 votes were cast, while the Clayton facion says it had counters in all the pre-incts, and that not more than 700 balcincts, and that not more than 700 ballots were cast, and that they will produce affidavits to support this claim.

Those declared elected by the central committee, to whom certificates are to be issued this week, bre Louis Brownlow, John B. Colpoys, Walter J. Costello, Charles W. Darr, Charles A. Douglas, James S. Easby-Smith, George H. Emmons, jr.; George Killeen, Robert E. Mattingly, E. Southard Parker, Thomas H. Pickford and Tucker K. Sands.

Thomas H. Pickford and Tucker K. Sands.

This delegation is carrying to the national convention two platform planks of particular interest in the District.—suffage for the District and an appeal against repeal of the half-and-half principle of financing the District.

Lorenzo G. Warfield, speaking for the opposition holding an independent primary in the old Masonic Temple, said that their ticket was elected. He resented the intimation that the Clayton and Kelly faction had anything to do with his ticket. He charges them with being inimical to his delegates and secretly working against them.

Insists Staggers Will Be Elected.

He insists that John W. Staggers will he elected by the national committee, as, he claims, this was "the only election held according to the rules laid down by the national committee, viz., six delegates by competitive vote-the Costello election being restricted to their supporters only-while the Warfield ticket welcomed opposition in their polls and did have it from Clay-

Mr. Warfield claims that about eighty-five votes were cast at this independent poiling booth. He says each voter was required "to sign a pledge that he had not voted elsewhere nor would he do so. The box with the registration list inside was sealed up, and will be taken to the St. Louis convention, to be opened and counted by the credentials committee; the judge and clerk will both make affidavits as to the honesty of the vote."

The delegates voted for at this primary were: Lorenzo G. Warfield, Louis P. Shoemaker, George A. Armes, John H. Adrianus William H. J. Maghan and Percy Metzger.

In appealing to voters and in verification of the claim that they invited com-Warfield claims that about

In appearing to voters and in verifica-tion of the claim that they invited com-petition this ticket carried the following statement:
"Any democratic resident may vote, regardless of where he lives, after he has registered as to his eligibility.

"A voter may scratch the name of any candidate, or candidates, and substitute the name, or names, of any democrat instead, if he desires to do so."

Armes Denies He Was Candidate. Col. George A. Armes, whose name was mentioned as a delegate for the St. Louis convention on the Lorenzo War field ticket, today issued an emphatic denial that he was a candidate for delegate on the Warfield ticket. Col. Armes said he forbade the use of his name and that it was used after he had so announced. Col. Armes said he was heartily in favor of the administration and the linking of his name with a fac-tion opposed to the Wilson administration was very embarrassing to him.

Leaves for Chicago Convention.

Frank J. Hogan left last night for Chicago. He claims he won the local election as republican delegate to the national convention. He will contest the certificate held by the Miller-Chase faction. He was accompanied to the station by a large delegation of friends and political supporters.

HATS OFF, SAYS MR. CLAYTON.

Commends "Half-and-Half" Stand of Democratic Delegation.

William McK. Clayton made the folowing statement today: "It is announced by the democratic central committee from headquarters that their delegation to St. Louis, headed by Commissioner Brownlow, will fight for planks in the national platform demanding suffrage and the continuance of the half-and-half plan for the District.

"Congratulations are in order to Commissioner Brownlow, and the hearty thanks of all our people are due to Mr. Costelle for bringing about this change of heart."

"This is worth the whole primary and a half a dozen drubblings at the pells. Hats off to the committee! They builded better than we knew and were out after 'big game,' while some of us wasted birdshot on sparrows and heaves."

STEPS TO HALT THEFT

of Abating Nuisance.

That co-operation between the citiens and the police will be the best method of preventing depredations o places where efforts are being made to beautify the city and which have recently been abused by thieves and oodlums, is the belief expressed today by many persons interested.

A circular prepared by two schoo rincipals urges the assistance of public spirited persons in helping to abate he nuisance. It says:

"The principals of the Ross and of the James Ormond Wilson Normal School are much disturbed by the use that is being made of the grounds con-nected with those buildings out of school hours, especially at night. "They feel that such free and unli-censed use is an injustice to the neigh-bors who want an attractive environ-ment to the community at large and

The teachers are especially solicitous

The teachers are especially solicitous as to the happiness and welfare of the children. Boys and girls of the Ross School did not see a blossom from bulbs that they paid for and planted. From the flower beds of that school From the flower beds of that school were dug up two dozen geranium plants. Children of the Wilson Normal School lost by theft an entire set of plants to be set out in their gardens; evergreens bought by children's money were cut down at Christmas time: the lawns are used as playgrounds, grass is trampled and hedges broken.

"In addition to damage to property, school grounds become public nuisances and danger places morally if they are used without proper supervision. Cases of this nature have been known in connection with schools." Neighbors and friends can assist us.

"Neighbors and friends can assist us in two ways, by influencing children and friends to see that school property, although attractive, is property provided for certain legitimate uses, and by calling for protection by telephoning the local police precinct if trespassing takes place. There is one case of trespassing before the Juvenile Court at the present time.
